Babies pulled from pool

By Bill Bagby

GRANITE CITY — Two babies were saved from drowning Monday when a woman pulled them from a backyard swimming pool after she found them floating face down. Terri Rill, of 3801 Lake Drive, Pontoon Beach, was babysitting 21-month-old Kelly Ligibel and Kelly's 5-year-old brother, Kenny, at the home of their parents, Larry and Lisa Ligibel, 3225 Rodger Ave. Rill's 14-month-old son, James, was also present.

KENNY WAS sick Monday morning and had to miss school, Rill said.

She took Kelly and James outside while Kenny remained inside. Rill said she heard Kenny say that he was cold, so she went inside the house to get a blanket for him and to take his temperature. However, when she went back outside she could not find the two younger children.

After looking around the backyard, Rill said, she saw waves coming from the pool. That's when she saw Kelly and James floating in the pool face down.

THE CHILDREN apparently gained access to the water by climbing stairs that lead to a dock around the pool, Rill said. She added she was unaware the stairs were moveable.

Rill said she first grabbed Kelly from the pool.

"She came to right away on the dock and started crying," she said.

THEN RILL pulled her own son out of the water. He was unconscious and completely limp, she said.

Rill took the two children inside the house, where she put James on a living room sofa and started pumping her son's stomach. When she picked him up, he vomited and

POW/MIA vigil at depot

By Valerie Evenden

GRANITE CITY — An overnight candlelight vigil to note the plight of American servicemen still missing in Vietnam will take place Friday and Saturday, Sept. 19-20, at the U. S. Army St. Louis Area Support Center here.

The Granite City area has two men unaccounted for in the Vietnam War — Capt. John Bernard Causey and Warrant Officer James Leslie Dayton.

The vigil, expected to be the largest in the bi-state metropolitan area, is one of thousands being planned across the country as part of National POW/MIA Recognition Day.

THE LOCAL observance is being arranged by Ron Hessebauer of Highland, Illinois POW/MIA coordinator for the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The 24-hour vigil will begin at noon Friday, Sept. 19, with a flag ceremony in which various military and veterans' organizations will be represented.

Remarks will be made by Illinois

State Rep. Ron Stevens (R-110th Dist.), a Vietnam veteran, and Dorothy Bode Lippert of the National League of POW/MIA Families.

A NUMBER of former POWs and family members of men still missing are also expected to attend.

Following the ceremonies, an honor guard of Vietnam veterans will stand watch over 15 lighted candles that represent those servicemen from Missouri and Illinois still missing.

Pontoon to try new taxes

By Jackie Adams

PONTON BEACH — At a special meeting Monday night to determine the tax levy, the Village Board threw out the old and brought in the new with two new taxes.

The board decided not to levy a general fund tax this year but implement new municipal use and occupation sales taxes.

THE BOARD, however, did decide to continue the police tax at .0075 per $100 assessed valuation.

The municipal use tax will be on items bought out of state or in another location such as a car bought in Missouri.

"We can get 1 percent of the total cost of these items," said Trustee Lou Whitsell.

THE BOARD is concerned about how to collect the tax. Taxes are sent to Granite City mailing addresses because Pontoon has no post office. Whitsell said this and other ways of receiving sales taxes from businesses annexed to Pontoon would be discussed in a meeting to be arranged between Village Attorney Keith Jensen and a representative from the Illinois Department of Revenue.

The other tax would be on sales and services such as real estate sold in the village.

Whitsell and other trustees will also be holding a meeting this week with an official of Illinois-American Water Co. to discuss means of running or extending a water line into an

Prairie Farms eyes school offices for expansion

By Dave Gosnell

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — An expansion of the Prairie Farms Dairy facility may hinge on the purchase of nearby District 9 property.

Prairie Farms representatives met with school officials about the possibility of buying school property, which includes the Board of Education office at the intersection, of 20th and Adams streets.

District 9 Superintendent Gilbert Walsmsley said that he, Finance Director Norm Owca and Buildings and Grounds Director Ron Landman met with two Prairie Farms representatives to discuss a possible sale.

WALMSLEY CALLED the discussion "informal chit-chat."

"They told us they ... might need more room," Walsmsley said.

He said the discussions did not focus on price offers and did not result in any agreements.

"It was a basic inquiry. There was no active discussion or consideration," he said.

Move would not threaten easement

By Dave Gosnell

GRANITE CITY — An agreement between the city and the District 9 Board of Education is not likely to be in jeopardy if the school district sold its school board office and warehouse property to Prairie Farms Dairy Co.

Granite City Mayor Von Dee Cruse said he would like to see the city's agreement to haul the district's trash in exchange for a street easement still stand if the property was sold.

The agreement grants an easement to the city from the district for access to a short road on the school's property.

The city had sought the easement to give Sidener Supply Co., which is near the school property at 20th and Adams streets, road access to its facility. Street access to Sidener's property was in question when the city constructed an overpass on 19th Street.

In exchange for the easement, the city agreed to pick up all trash from the district's schools at no cost.

If Prairie Farms bought the school's property to expand its operations, the company would already have road access and the agreement would not be needed. The company has already purchased the Sidener land.

Cruse said he did not want to make it difficult for the district to make a decision on a sale by canceling the agreement. If the agreement was canceled, the district would have to start paying for trash pickup.

"I can't speak for the aldermen, but I wouldn't be for doing something like that. I just hope this is a feasible project. I hope that it's not something impossible for them (the school board) to make happen," Cruse said.

Farms will determine whether the dairy will seek the school property. "Our company engineers are doing a study. That (purchase of the

Bell sues city, mayor over job, back pay

By Bill Bagby

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Retired Granite City firefighter Robert D. Bell is suing the city, Mayor Von Dee Cruse and Fire Chief Joe Holder in an effort to get his job back as a captain.

The suit was filed Monday, Sept. 8, in Madison County Circuit Court in Edwardsville by Granite City attorney William Schooley.

A HEARING on the case has been set for Friday, Sept. 19, by Madison County Associate Judge Edward Ferguson. Bell began receiving a disability pension in December 1984 after suffering a back injury on the job, the suit said. He had been a firefighter since Aug. 5, 1970.

However, Bell was told by doctors in July that his condition had improved and he could return as a firefighter captain. When this was learned, the Firemen's Pension Fund stopped Bell's pension, according to the suit.

A HEARING to work Sept. 19, Bell RETURNED to work Sept. 19.

GC woman shot during vice raid

ARNOLD, Mo. — A Granite City woman was shot in the shoulder during a prostitution raid at an Arnold apartment Monday night.

Cecilia Kay McCall, 32, was shot by Arnold Police Sgt. Frank Nelson when she emerged from a bedroom closet as police raided the apartment at 7:40 p.m. Sept. 8, said Arnold Detective Lt. E.J. Nelson. McCall was admitted to St. Anthony's Medical Center in St. Louis County, Nelson said. She was not arrested; authorities are seeking a warrant, he said.

Monday had apparently been her first night there, Nelson said.

The raid was conducted at a three-bedroom, two-story apartment at 1204 Quiet Village in Arnold. Two women and two suspected customers were arrested in the raid, which was led by Nelson.

new plant near its present one, if it decides to proceed with the expansion plans, said Rappoff. He said a study being conducted by Prairie Farms will determine whether the dairy will seek the school property.

"Our company engineers are doing a study. That (purchase of the school property) is a consideration. That's a question that cannot be answered until the study is done," Rappoff said.

The school district property is regarded by the firm as one of the few pieces of potential industrial land in the vicinity that would be available for purchase.

Walsmsley said the district would need to consider many potential problems before such a sale is made. "IT WOULD BE a major upheaval for us," Walsmsley said.

The district not only operates its central offices on the property, but warehouses much of its supplies and its grounds and maintenance equipment on the site.

He said determining the value of the property would cost the district and, before an appraisal is made, the district would need to know if Prairie Farms is serious about making a purchase proposal.

Walsmsley also said the district must abide by state laws regarding bidding procedures, such as setting a minimum sale price, even if the district was interested in selling the land to Prairie Farms.

No major cable TV changes

South-Western Cable TV Ltd. customers will not see major changes in their service if the purchase of the cable system by Cencom Cable Associates is approved, Cencom representatives said this month.

Two Cencom officials, Floyd Rogers, director of governmental relations, and Frank Webb, group vice president of operations, said the cities served by South-Western must approve the sale to Cencom for the transaction to be finalized.

Webb acknowledged that technicians' contract would lapse when Cencom takes over, but he said the firm plans to negotiate a new pact with the union.

He said Cencom intends to continue present South-Western maintenance and installation services. The current employees know the system and its equipment, Webb said, and he expects that all present employees will retain their jobs.

He noted that Cencom previously purchased three systems in the St. Louis area and each of those firms retained their separate technical and maintenance operations.

This news was welcomed by Jim Rachell, president of the technicians' union, Communications Workers of America Local 660.

He said Cencom officials had answered the major concerns of the employees. He said the technicians had heard little about Cencom, and most of what they had heard had come by way of rumor.

Webb said he wished Cencom officials could spend more time talking with South-Western technicians at this point, but because the sale to Cencom is not final, the firm cannot be as visible to the union as the employees might wish.

The Cencom officials did not discuss terms of the tentative purchase of South-Western. They briefly outlined the history of Cencom and some of the plans for South-Western.

Webb said the South-Western office will remain in Maryville and there will be no shift of personnel.

The only planned addition to the channel selection would be the St. Louis Cardinal Network, which broadcasts 50 home games of the baseball team.

"Really, the only change I can see is there will be a new name on the bill," Webb said.

He said Cencom's corporate office in Chesterfield will be an advantage because the people making the decisions for the company will be located nearby. South-Western's current parent company is First Carolina Communications, headquartered in North Carolina.

Cencom has 100,000 subscribers in St. Louis County, and also has systems in North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana and Kentucky, Webb said.

It is expected South-Western would add 25,000 basic and 30,000 pay channel subscribers to Cencom's system.

Rogers was asked for approval of the transfer of the franchise agreement to Cencom "as expeditiously as possible."

Officials have indicated the transfer of ownership is planned for around mid-November.

Township agrees to plan to hire engineer for study

By Norma Mendoza

Correspondent
NAMEOKI — To verify boundary lines and legal descriptions of areas Granite City wants to annex, the Nameoki Township Board agreed Monday night to hire a registered engineer.

The descriptions and boundaries supplied by the city in preparation to annex the Gorbie and Steelecrest Manor areas were questioned by Associate Chief Judge Edward G. Ferguson at a hearing last week in Edwardsville.

Ferguson continued the hearing to Monday, Sept. 15 at 2 p.m. He said the city can amend its description and the township can have time to examine the residents' petitions for annexation.

The board entered into executive session for a time to discuss the litigation.

Other problems with annexation occupied the board's attention. Supervisor Harry Briggs asked the township attorney to explain a motion filed that relates to the decision to allow the annexation of the Granite City Steel Blast Furnace by Granite City.

Township attorney Irv Slate Jr. said the motion asks the appellate court to consider the timing involved in the issuance of a certificate of error which reduced the valuation of Granite City Steel property by $3.5 million and the company's immediate request for the city to annex the blast furnace.

"This puts things to a question," Briggs said. "Something went wrong. Right after the certificate of error was issued, Granite City annexed the blast furnace. I'm not saying there was collusion, but something's going on."

A certificate of error can be issued by local assessment officials when an error is discovered after the deadline for appealing has passed and before judgment for taxes is rendered. However, it is specifically limited to errors — other than errors of judgment — as to the valuation of any real property.

The certificate of error filed July 3 by Madison County Assessment Supervisor Robert Harris states a clerical error is the reason for changing the assessment.

At the time, Ben Johannpeter, a spokesperson for Granite City Steel, told the Press-Record Journal the certificate of error was issued to correct the assessment because the assessment was more than the amount allowed by terms agreed to by the company and local governmental entities more than a year ago.

"When Granite City asked for a lower figure, they violated the agreement," Slate said.

In other action, Highway Commissioner Lee Adams said the following streets have been chipped and sealed: Harrison, Bradley, Ruth, Joyce, Warnock, Hemlock, Pine and Cedar; Edwards and Kelly drives; Cargill, Vesce, Elliott and part of Bruns roads.

Town Clerk Lee Ridgeway read a letter from George Miller, executive director of the Township Officials of Illinois.

Miller asked all township officials to write President Reagan and their own members of Congress to ask for their support for H.R. 1400 to extend federal General Revenue Sharing.

Miller said for some local governments in central and southern Illinois, revenue sharing is the "staff of life," the difference between survival and devastation.

He said several key members of Congress from Illinois oppose the reauthorization of revenue sharing. He said those most adamant are Phil Crane, Harris Fawell, Henry Hyde, Lynn Martin and John Porter. He said House Minority Leader Robert Michel opposes but has been less vocal.

Miller added that Dan Rostenkowski, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee has so far remained uncommitted, at least for the record.

Briggs said the township would send letters to the appropriate members of Congress.

Ridgeway also read a letter from Gov. James Thompson advising the township he had signed H.B. 1467, which provides some relief to townships threatened with loss of territory to annexation by coterminous townships.

Briggs said he expressed his appreciation to the governor for his signature on the bill.

"I'm sure it will be beneficial to us in the future," Briggs said. "But it was about a week-and-a-half late and $50,000 short, as far as we're concerned."

Rezoning request delayed

GRANITE CITY — A request to rezone a vacant lot at the end of Villa Drive for construction of 100 condominiums will not be heard by the city's plan commission at its meeting tonight.

A petition filed by local physician Dr. A. Razzaga, owner of the land, was to be heard at the commission meeting tonight at City Hall.

HOWEVER, Bud Gosnell, developer of the condominiums, asked that the request be taken off the agenda, said plan commission secretary Mary Jo Akeman.

Gosnell has planned a meeting with residents of the Villa Drive area for 11 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 13, at City Hall to discuss the development. Mayor Von Decruse will also be present.

About 75 residents of the area met last week in opposition to the condominiums. Some of the residents said the development could mean higher property taxes, added traffic and noise problems, and increased pressure on sanitary sewers.

RAZZAGA PLANS 40 one-bedroom units, 40 two-bedroom units, 20 townhouses, a community center and a 200-car parking lot.

He has petitioned the commission to rezone the property from single-family residential (R-2) to planned residential (R-3).

TV & OBESITY

The more kids watch TV in their younger years, the more likely they are to become overweight teens. That's because time spent viewing TV increases between-meal snacking — also it is time not spent on physical activity that burns up calories. Only 10% of teenagers who watch one hour of TV a day are obese, compared to 20% of teens who watch over 5 hours a day. All that sitting around catches up with you in the end.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

A person who is having a contractor build a home should be careful about the manner in which he makes payments to the contractor. The contract with the builder should provide that payments will be made in installments as the work is completed. In addition, the homeowner should be certain that lien waivers are obtained from subcontractors and suppliers of material on a regular basis.

In one recent case, a homeowner decided to have a $35,000 addition constructed on his existing residence. The contract did not really specify how payments would be made. The homeowner paid an initial $7,000 down, which was to cover materials and labor to get the job started. At the end of three weeks, the contractor approached the owner and requested that the balance of the contract price be paid immediately. The homeowner immediately paid the entire balance owed, and the contractor thereafter disappeared with all the money.

In another case, a homeowner paid $13,000 to a general contractor, as the final installment under their contract. The contractor was to pay $6,400 from this sum to the supplier of carpeting and hardwood floors which were used in the home. The homeowner failed to obtain a lien waiver from the contractor before the final payment was made, and the general contractor kept the entirety of the final installment for his own use. The supplier of the carpeting and floors immediately filed a lien against the property for $6,400. This meant that the homeowner would pay for the carpeting and floors twice, since he had to pay again for these materials in order to have the lien removed.

What steps should be followed by a person building a home in order to ensure that a contractor does not take advantage of him? In the first place, a contract between the homeowner and the contractor should provide that all payments will be made in installments upon completion of a specified amount of work.

In addition, the person building the home should be very careful that lien waivers are presented by subcontractors and suppliers of material on a regular basis. The homeowner could actually take it upon himself to supply that these people are paid on a timely basis. Illinois law allows these individuals to file a lien against the property if they are not paid by the general contractor.

Lotto millionaires celebrate on barge

GRANITE CITY — Illinois State Lottery millionaires from downstate Illinois and Missouri were reunited for a special "Millionaires Dinner Cruise" hosted by Illinois State Lottery Director Rebecca Paul here Monday.

With "lucky" stories flying and a number of toasts made, a group of millionaires, worth more than $46,000,000, celebrated their good fortune on a barge.

"This is just the tip of the iceberg," said Paul. "The Lottery has created over 300 millionaires, valued at over $800 million, in Illinois and neighbor states such as Missouri. We certainly have a fine-looking representative group with us today," she said.

The reunion began with a "cast-off cocktail party" at the Tri-City Regional Port District in Granite City.

Millionaires nibbled on hors d'oeuvres while mingling with some of the area's Lottery agents, including those who have sold winning Lotto tickets. The millionaires then set off on the Mississippi to dine on barbecued ribs, steak, corn-on-the-cob and more, kicking up their heels to a local Dixieland band.

It's a happy time when millionaires can meet their counterparts, exchange stories and anecdotes and just have an overall great time," Paul said. "Creating fun entertainment is what the Illinois Lottery is all about."

Illinois Lottery sales reached over $1.5 billion in fiscal year 1986 (July 1985-June 1986). Lottery players won $639 million (up 8.5 percent from FY 1985). Lottery profits from 1986 generated $52 million for the Common School Fund, helping support education statewide.

The Illinois State Lottery officially began on July 1, 1974.

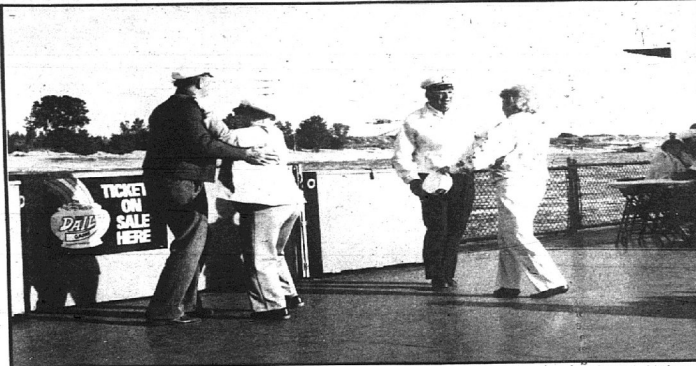

The millionaires made a four-hour barge trip from the port to the Gateway Arch area in downtown St. Louis and back. Charlie's Restaurant provided the food.

The barge was made available by the Army Corps of Engineers. One count showed 18 members of an elite social club, called the Millionaires Association, and their guests participated in the sunset cruise.

The members qualified for the club by picking six lucky numbers in the Lotto game.

Winners' reunions started in 1982 as publicity for the lottery and to allow the winners to get together, share experiences and offer advice on what to do with all that money, Paul said.

During the last reunion, the winners decided they wanted to start their own club, and the Millionaires Association came into being. The club has about 350 members with an estimated worth of more than $800 million.

THE GOOD LIFE: Illinois State Lottery lotto millionaires Norman and Helen Rinehart of Flora, Ill., and lottery agents Bill and Darlene Skidits of Lotto Liquors in Cahokia kick up their heels on the Senator Sam during the lottery's first Downstate Millionaires Reunion, which originated at the Tri-City Port facility in Granite City. The millionaires cruised to the Gateway Arch and back Monday afternoon and evening.

Betty Gloss of Elburn was the biggest winner on the cruise with $6 million. She won her fortune on Oct. 15, 1983.

She had only been playing the lottery for six weeks since Labor Day, when her friend had won more than $2 million.

Betty picked her numbers using a combination of her birth month, birth year, number of people in her family, number of dogs she owned and by adding one and subtracting two from numbers already picked because "you are always one or two numbers off," she said.

She and her husband, Art, are waiting to receive their fourth yearly check of $300,000 in October. "That's Christmas Day for us," she said.

Most of the winners, including the Glosses, have invested part of the money and given some to charities, but they have used it to buy some of the nicer things in life, too.

Betty bought herself three fur coats and gave Art a gold and diamond ring for his birthday.

The Glosses, who own a private detective agency, received an unexpected bonus in winning the lottery.

Art had unsuccessfully tried for 34 years to find his three sons by a previous marriage. His oldest son saw him on television during the lottery publicity and the three sons were reunited with their father. "They're with us all the time now," he said.

Walter Mulkins of Paris, Ill., won $2.1 million in 1985. "At times, it doesn't feel like it's any different," he said.

Winning did change the Mulkins' lives. Soon after he won, Walter quit his job as a car salesman and bought a new house and a conversion van for his wife, Vivian, who had wanted one for "a long time."

"We've been busy buying things we never had," he said.

Walter said there was "nothing scientific" in the way he won the lottery. He bought $4 worth of tickets picking numbers that had meaning, but on the ticket with which he won, he just picked them randomly.

Robert and Anna Rucker of Florissant, Mo., had the most unusual story of beating the odds. The husband and wife team both won the lottery on Jan. 28, 1984, by choosing the same sequence of numbers without the other knowing and picked up a million a piece.

They used their birthdays and the birthdays of their children to choose the winning numbers.

They said the money hadn't changed them much, but it did allow them the luxury of building a new home and helping their son, Robert Rucker Jr., with his college education.

Their son was in the Air Force at the time and he recalled the day they won. "My sister called and scream-

Eliminate tax as public asked

The telephone tax should be eliminated because the public said so.

For that reason, we oppose the tax. We have never stated removing the telephone tax would be good or bad for the city, but we have repeatedly stated it should be removed.

No matter the cost to the city, the aldermen should listen to the people who elect them, and that is the basis for our support for removing the tax.

Seventh Ward Alderman Jeff Worthen is among a few aldermen who would keep the tax, though voters overwhelmingly defeated it in an advisory referendum in April 1985. Worthen correctly states the city is facing some tough decisions on how to handle its sewer problems.

The argument that the city is in need of the money is not new, as evidenced by this passage from an August 1985 Press-Record editorial:

"The intention of these aldermen is honorable. They believe removing the tax and the estimated $250,000 it generates will hurt the city."

"They may be right. The city is financially troubled and has been for some time. Though decisions on pay raises for city workers, and on the city starting to do its own garbage pickups and garage work are being weighed.

"Though it would not put the city in debt, dropping the tax and a quarter-million dollars annually makes the task of providing city services more difficult."

"In addition, dropping the tax would mean little savings for taxpayers — perhaps a few dollars per year for the average resident."

This newspaper is well aware of the importance $250,000 plays in providing city services. We are equally aware that most locally collected tax money goes to the Granite City School District 9 rather than to the city.

But the issue to be considered is what the public stated about the tax after candidate Von Dee Cruse campaigned for its removal while simultaneously running for mayor: The public voted to remove it.

There's opposition now to removing the tax, but that opposition wasn't so vocal when it should have been — during the April 1985 election, possibly because no one wants to be associated with advocating a tax. That's tantamount to political suicide.

This newspaper respects and understands those aldermen who now are saying the tax shouldn't be removed. But our point is that it's too late.

The public had its say. Now, it's just a question of whether or not the aldermen intend to listen to those who elected them.

Let there be silence? Nope!

Is the District 9 School Board already back to its old tricks?

There's information supporting that idea being leaked to the press.

The board apparently attacked one of its own members in another of its Star Chamber sessions. One member belittled another. The member's "crime" was mentioning to the press something that happened in one of the earlier closed sessions.

It seems some board members would deprive other members of the right to free speech. The majority would put a "gag order" on the minority. None of it sounds like the activity found in the democratic form of government.

And isn't the blanket "shut-up rule" convenient? If the board commits some crime in those sessions, such as discussing public matters in private, the rule would stop honest members from saying what occurred.

The rule should be eliminated. It appears the board may be back to funny business in its conduct in closed sessions, and maybe in its hiring practices.

There's talk that a board member wants a district job. To get it, the person could resign and then the board will appoint the person to the district post, making it look as though no prior arrangements were made.

However, if something like that happens, especially since it's being leaked in advance, maybe some arrangement has been made. If so, there certainly is a matter of ethics to be discussed.

But ethical considerations have not seemed to stand in the way of some past board business that we've called into question.

We'd be happy to be proven wrong about what we're saying about the "shut-up rule" and the possible hiring, and to prove it we invite School Board President Dewey Melton to write us to:

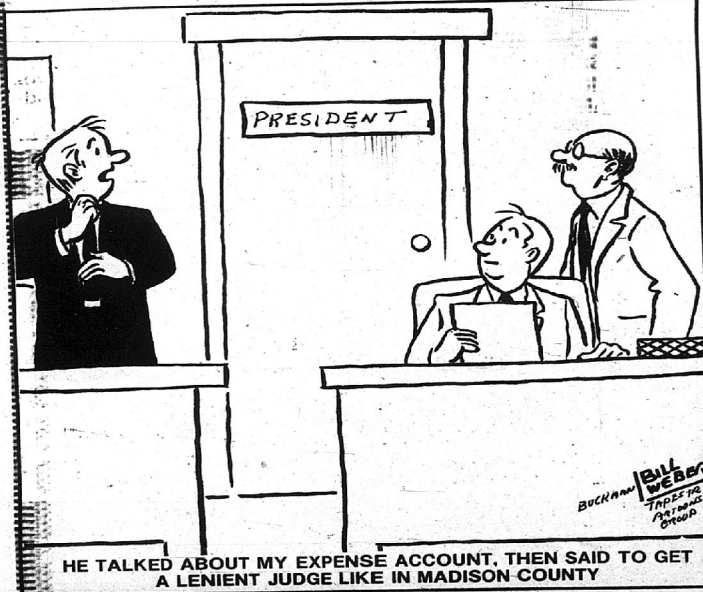

1) Say that no board member was browbeaten in executive session for having used the constitutional right to talk to the press, and that

2) No current board member will be appointed to a district job during this school year.

Melton is under no obligation, of course, to write such a letter. But in requesting the letter, we're giving the board a chance to show us where we're wrong.

We honestly hope we are wrong because the public is as tired of hearing about School Board problems as we are tired about writing about them.

But, if we don't get the letter, the public will again have to draw conclusions about that group of persons it elected. And the conclusions could only be negative for District 9.

Carl Royston, Madison

"Well, I think something needs to be done, but the death penalty seems a bit too harsh. But, then again, what the drugs do to people is bad, too."

Is the death penalty needed?

To combat the drug problem in this country, some political candidates have suggested imposing the death penalty for certain drug convictions. Do you think the death penalty is too harsh for this type of crime?

Sharon Wick, Granite City

"I definitely think it's a problem that needs to be worked on, but I'm not sure, now, about the death penalty."

Murel Spengler, Granite City

"It seems like it is too harsh. I'm not so sure I'm for capital punishment, anyway."

Gen. Rogers urges more readiness

To the editor:

I have saved an item from the New York Times of Sept. 5, 1984. Buried on page 25 in the ninth paragraph of the article is a quotation that should have been on the front page of that newspaper and every newspaper in the country. But I saw it only in that one article in that one newspaper.

Gen. Bernard W. Rogers, a four-star American general and the supreme commander of all NATO forces in Western Europe — then and now — said:

"We have mortgaged our defense to the nuclear response. We have failed to provide sufficient sustaining capacity — ammunition stocks, prepositioned material to replace losses of equipment on the battlefield such as tanks and howitzers — to keep fighting for a sufficient length of time. Under current conditions, if attacked conventionally, we will have to request the release of theater nuclear weapons fairly quickly."

The warning of Gen. Rogers is as true today as it was two years ago. And it could take on added meaning when tough decisions must be made soon on cutting back the growth in defense spending. The huge and growing federal deficit is going to force a needed reduction in defense spending growth.

In light of these fiscal realities, will we continue to give our country an imbalanced defense?

The nuclear deterrent is so overwhelming it is almost a non-deterrent. Anyone who gives the command to use that first nuclear weapon in war must realize that he or she may be ending civilization.

For example, if the Soviets should move in and grab 50 square miles of West German territory, do we respond with nuclear weapons that not only destroy the Soviets, but probably will cause the destruction of all of us? It is not likely — and the Soviets know it.

The advice of Gen. Rogers is to be better prepared with a conventional response than we are.

Instead of putting too many eggs in the nuclear basket we should pay more attention to anti-tank weapons, personnel training, stocks of conventional munitions and the like.

Instead, we are investing more and more in the already overwhelming nuclear response.

Why? We want an "adequate deterrent." But what is adequate?

For a rational Soviet leader one of our strategic missiles — containing more power than all the bombs of World War II — ought to be sufficient. But in case that is knocked out by the Soviets, we build two. In case those are knocked out we build four — and on and on.

We now have approximately 10,500 of the large, strategic warheads and the Soviets have about 10,000. In addition, we have between us about 30,000 small nuclear warheads.

In nuclear terms, both of us are armed far beyond anything rational. One way of gradually moving away from the nuclear reliance is to halt all nuclear testing. At one point we offered that but the Soviets refused. Now they offer it and we refuse.

Since underground nuclear tests are verifiable, we ought to move in that direction. Not to do so risks everything.

Each test costs us about $20 million; some tests cost as much as $50 million each.

If we stopped the tests we could do three things:

1) We could stop the spiraling growth of the arms race.

2) We could take half the cost of each test and invest it in more practical defense measures, as Gen. Rogers has suggested.

3) We could take the other half of the test costs and reduce the defense budget.

That seems logical and obvious. But what should be obvious somehow is not.

The sooner we face reality, the safer our nation and world will be. We should listen to Gen. Rogers.

U.S. SEN. PAUL SIMON

Thinks city should not have torn down house

To the editor:

I have always been proud of Granite City and proud to be a part of it. I am in favor of Granite City being a clean steel town but I am not proud of the way it was accomplished.

At the Aug. 26 City Council meeting, I was ashamed to be a part of a city whose actions were as follows:

Two police officers were called to the council meeting to stand in back of the room to wait for an elderly couple who were there to protest the possible demolition of their retirement home. They were not heard and then were escorted out by the officers.

The elderly couple were assured there was nothing to worry about, that it was in litigation. The couple returned to Iowa on Wednesday, confident for the time being they were safe from having their house torn down.

The city went to work and wasted no time. On Friday, bright and early the house was demolished.

I personally inspected the house inside and out. There was some work to be done inside, but there had already been extensive work done.

A complete new roof, new wiring and plumbing had been installed. I'm sure the house was in better shape than many homes in Granite City that are occupied at the present time.

At a time when the city is giving out all the large raises and back pay to city employees and ex-employees, it doesn't make sense to me to take community development funds to demolish a house that brings in $1,200 a year in taxes to the city.

I am going to watch my home close from now on. I think all residents of Granite City should do the same. That is, if you don't have a home in A-1 condition, and many of us don't.

No decision on board replacement

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The District Board of Education could not decide Friday night who to select as a replacement for former member Jerry McKechan, who resigned two weeks ago.

But the board did decide to limit the selection to a rural candidate.

BOARD PRESIDENT Dewey Melton said after a 2½-hour executive session the board's attorney, William Schooley Jr., advised that the board is legally obligated to pick a rural candidate because McKechan was a rural member.

"That was his legal opinion," said Melton.

Last week, the Press-Record/Journal reported that an Illinois Board of Elections official said District 9 was not obligated to pick a rural candidate as long as the board maintains at least two rural members.

Current members Dave Partney and Kelly Hogan live in rural areas of the district.

But Melton said Schooley interpreted an Illinois statute to read that the board would be on safer legal ground if it picked a candidate from the same "type" of residency as the previous board member.

"That is consistent with prior appointments to this board," Melton said.

AT LEAST SIX candidates from Granite City will not be considered for the board slot because of the restriction.

Six candidates from rural areas are being considered. They are Sheila Moran, Joann Macios, Ruth Lahr, Jack Solberger, Bob Maxwell and Jerry Lilly.

Moran came in eighth among 10 candidates in the last board election in November 1985. Macios has never served on the board, though her husband, Carl, served about 9½ years until 1974. He is assessor of Nameoki Township.

Maxwell served as a board member after he was first elected in 1980 and was defeated in 1983.

LAHR was narrowly defeated last November for a second consecutive board term. She finished fourth when three positions were to be filled.

Solberger ran for a board seat in 1972 and was defeated. He is an employee of Granite City Steel.

Lilly is an Arlington Heights Ward District trustee.

None of the candidates was able to garner enough support from the full board to be selected, Partney said.

"No one person could get a majority vote," he said.

UNDER STATE LAW, the board has 30 days from McKechan's resignation date to select a replacement. McKechan resigned on Aug. 26, and the board must appoint a replacement by Sept. 25. After that date, the selection will be handed over to Regional Superintendent of Schools Harold "Gene" Briggs.

Briggs would then have 15 days to make an appointment.

The next regular Board of Education meeting is scheduled for Sept. 23.

"IF SOMEONE doesn't change their mind, Mr. Briggs will pick it," Partney said.

"It will happen when it will happen," said Melton of a selection.

With a full board attending, a new member would need to receive four out of the six votes.

Maxwell, Lahr and Mrs. Macios all received support from at least one of the board members.

New debate offer rejected by Price

Congressional candidate Bob Gaffner again has offered to debate the incumbent, U.S. Rep. Melvin Price. In answer to Price's refusal to debate in Illinois, Gaffner suggested Washington as the site, but a Price aide rejected the idea this week.

"Since Price has given up his residence here, and he lives in Washington, D.C., year-round, I thought it would be more convenient for him to debate me in Washington — his real hometown," Gaffner said.

"Relying on an old record doesn't show the people how he intends to handle present-day problems. We've got to think about the present, and more importantly, the future especially as it relates to our children and our children's children," Gaffner said.

"Mr. Price was not seen during the Labor Day holiday at the Belleville or Granite City parades, which I attended. The congressman's absence prompted me to pursue the latest debate offer. I would fly the tapes back to Illinois and make sure they are shared with the voters of the district through the electronic media."

Demographic study topic

Judy McCann, president of the Gateway Business and Professional Women's Organization, and LaVelle Stephens, membership chairman of the group, will present a demographic study at the Sept. 15 meeting to be held in Wilson Park.

Members and guests are to meet at Shelter 6 at 6:30 p.m. for a picnic luncheon of salad and desserts, to be followed by the business session. Guests are invited to attend and may call any member for additional information.

Aid to unwed expands, Alpha Center closing

Normally, the closing of an agency is a sad occurrence that leaves a gap in the community services structure. But that is not the case of the Alpha Center for Women in Granite City, a spokesman said this week.

Alpha Center was opened in December 1980 in an effort to meet the needs resulting from young unmarried maternity cases. At the time, there were no maternity homes in this area. State programs that provided financial assistance were at a minimum, and often the girls did not qualify.

Much has changed in the last six years. A number of maternity homes have opened in the St. Louis area and, recently, the state has changed its regulations regarding financial assistance.

Young unmarried females now are eligible for a state medical card and can receive government assistance for housing and food during their last four months of pregnancy.

Since its inception, Alpha Center has served 250 young women. With the agency's assistance, many young women have continued their education, attended parenting classes and received proper medical care. Some have gone to college and on to paying jobs, enabling them to share in the financial support of their children.

For Executive Director Judy White and Administrator Betty Stegmeyer, their work at Alpha House has been rewarding.

"We are proud to have been a part of an agency that was able to fill a need when the need was there," White said. "We are glad there is no longer a need. Young girls belong at home."

Officers also include Jerry Lakin, president; Dennis Chennault, vice president; and Sue Champion, secretary.

Shirley Yates is manager of the credit union office at 23rd and State streets.

GC employees credit union tops $1 million

Assets of the Granite City Employees Federal Credit Union have reached the "million dollar plateau," Ron Selph, treasurer, announced at the group's board meeting in August.

The credit union has 530 active members and its assets of $1,019,418, as recorded Aug. 31, have tripled in the past seven years, Selph said this week.

Membership in the GCEFCU is open to all city, park district, township, public library and Coordinated Youth Services employees and their families, the treasurer said.

Officers also include Jerry Lakin, president; Dennis Chennault, vice president; and Sue Champion, secretary.

BAC to celebrate its birthday

Belleville Area College will observe its 40th anniversary this fall with a dinner to honor former trustees and a party to salute its owners, the 370,000 residents of the district.

The appreciation dinner for former trustees will be in mid-

October and funded by the BAC Foundation, a non-for-profit, fundraising organization. The district Board of Trustees will serve as hosts. Guests will include those who served on the Belleville 201 District Board of Education during the time the college was a part of that district.

Numerous free programs are planned, including concerts by the Scott Air Force Band of Mid-America, Masterworks Chorale Children's Choir, BAC Jazz Band, RSVP Orchestra, George Portz and the Friends of Bluegrass, and the children's play, "Pansy and the Muse of Fire."

Other activities on the tentative agenda include:

- Five-kilometer and one-mile fun runs, pony rides, helium balloon release, birthday cake eating contest, face painting, mime, jugglers, magic show, hot dog roast, pumpkin decorating contest and little Miss BAC contest;

- Open house with exhibits by various college programs, a faculty art show and class reunions.

The 40th anniversary logo, designed by college graphic artist Nancy Webb of Mascoutah, will be used in banners and a special quilt being made by the quilters at Programs and Services for Older Persons. The anniversary planning committee is interested in finding alumni and persons who attended BAC. Special reunion locations will be set aside during the Oct. 17-19 weekend. Persons interested in attending such a reunion should call Norman Greenberg's office at the college, 235-2709, extension 202.

Patricia Ann Hillmer

Hillmer earns dental degree

Patricia Ann Hillmer, 27, of Granite City, recently graduated from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale with a degree in dental hygiene.

Hillmer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. Hillmer of 2900 Michigan Ave., also received recognition from the American Association of Dentistry and was appointed to the Dental Hygiene Advisory Board at SIUC. She served as class president for two years.

She is employed by her father, who is a dentist.

The Cahokia Mound Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be holding a council-wide camporee on Sept. 25, 27 and 28 at Camp Joy near Carlyle, Ill.

The theme for the camporee is "BrownSea Island '96." BrownSea Island was the site of the first Boy Scout long-term camp held by Lord Baden Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts, near England in 1907.

The scouts and leaders will hold an opening campfire on Friday evening, followed by a cracker barrel get-together for the leaders.

On that Saturday, the scouts will compete by patrols in six basic scout skills, map and compass, first-aid, knots, firebuilding, pioneering with scout staves (walking sticks) and nature. There will be Protestant and Catholic Church services on Saturday evening followed by a recognition campfire.

There will also be scout staff and patrol flag competition, with first, second- and third-place prizes in all categories.

On Sunday, there will be camping games including ski races, tug of war and pancake flipping. Each adult and leader registering will receive a special patch. Each troop will receive a ribbon for its troop flag.

The camporee staff has a goal of participation by all troops in the council. The Cahokia Mound Council includes all of Bond County and the southern half of Madison County.

A session on the retail and office space development corridor is set for 10 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 17, at the Webster School auditorium in Collinsville.

A meeting on tourism is scheduled, at 10 a.m. on Sept. 23 at Highland Community College in Freeport.

The governor identified eight initial corridors of opportunity in his "State of the State" message. They are agribusiness, tourism, automotive, industrial retooling, riverfront development, high technology, new energy and solid materials recycling, and retail and office space development.

Where requirements of regional coordination are met, matching funds are to be provided by the state government to embark on new economic development projects.

Both alleged a man had threatened them with a gun, fired at the auto, and ran inside an apartment. Two other people at the scene also said the man had a weapon and said he entered the building.

Solid waste law signed

A $10 million solid waste management program, drafted by the state administration, has been signed into law.

With the new program, Illinois will begin to reduce its reliance on land disposal and instead promote development of alternative means and new technologies to handle solid waste.

"Illinois in the 1980s is rapidly approaching a time when its land and the environment of its people will no longer be able to accommodate waste management through landfills alone. Plans must be made, a structure put in place and action taken to respond to this challenge," Gov. James R. Thompson said.

"We need new technologies. We are challenged to blend the resources of government and business with the power of university research to encourage the emerging recycling industry," he said.

"We do not look past problems in Illinois. We confront them and find a solution. This law is a major part of the solution."

Under House Bill 3548, state-of-the-art methods to reduce waste will be the top priority, followed by technological advances in the reuse and recycling of waste, the incineration of waste, and landfiling.

Thompson said the program's four goals can be reached by offering:

- Grants worth $1 million a year to encourage increased recycling and reuse of waste products.
- $2 million in grants and technical assistance to local governments to help address solid waste management problems.

• A pilot recycling program at the state government level, run by the Departments of Energy and Natural Resources — the lead agency for the entire proposal — and Central Management Services, by Jan. 1, 1987.

• A $750,000 expansion of the Industrial Materials Exchange Service, a program directed by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, by widening the program, which matches industrial waste producers with industries that can use waste products in their manufacturing processes, more waste products can be recycled.

In addition, the governor said better ways to handle the disposal and reuse of solid waste will be developed by researchers at the University of Illinois.

To pay for the program, HB 3548 establishes a Solid Waste Management Fund, for which the EPA will collect a fee on solid waste disposed of in each sanitary landfill from Jan. 1, 1987, through June 30, 1989.

Fees will range from $800 for up to 10,000 cubic yards of non-hazardous solid waste received at a site in a calendar year, to $25,000 for solid waste measuring between 100,000 and 150,000 cubic yards a year. If more than 150,000 cubic yards of waste are received in a year, the owner will pay 45 cents per cubic yard or 95 cents a ton.

The fee structure is expected to raise $10 million a year for the program, which takes effect immediately and will be reviewed by January 1989 to determine if adjustments need to be made that would solve other or related environmental problems, encourage research and development, and aid new recycling businesses.

On the same day, he signed a wide-ranging environmental bill containing nearly two dozen amendments. Among other steps, it gives the state greater citation authority, clarifies existing solid waste regulations, and tightens procedures for waste site selection and monitoring at the state and local levels.

The amendment dealing with broader citation powers was drafted by the Thompson administration and enables the EPA to issue citations to non-hazardous waste landfill operators for violations such as open burning, failure to cover material, allowing the material to be scattered by the wind, or accepting wastes without a permit.

In addition, Senate Bill 2117 creates the Metro East Solid Waste Disposal and Energy Producing Act, legislation that allows governments in the Metro East area to regulate waste disposal in their communities.

Other portions of the bill require Illinois to notify residents or others who are living or working near an emergency cleanup of a chemical release.

Another amendment allows for the seizure of mobile equipment used to dump industrial waste in sewer systems, a common practice of illegal waste haulers.

SB 2117 is effective immediately.

State seizing property of delinquent taxpayers

Delinquent taxpayers, beware. The Illinois Department of Revenue has initiated a new seizure program aimed at individuals and businesses that refuse to pay their state taxes.

A new law increases the department's authority to seize property to satisfy state tax liabilities.

Now, the department can issue seizure warrants to the Department of State Police. Previously, only county sheriffs could serve seizure warrants for the Department of Revenue.

In addition, a new law allows Revenue to hire outside firms to handle the sale of assets from a seizure.

A professional firm will handle Cook County seizures, while county sheriffs will continue to serve in this function in the rest of the state.

"Seizing personal property or closing a business is our last resort in collecting overdue taxes," said Revenue Director J. Thomas Johnson. "Before a seizure, the taxpayer is contacted many times and given several opportunities to pay."

Taxpayers are given a final written warning that they have 10 days to pay their taxes before property is seized.

Sheriff's officials or the Department of State Police will accompany Revenue officials at each seizure.

"The emphasis during our seizures is not only to collect taxes, but to show the honest taxpayer or business that we are working for them," Johnson said. "We don't like to conduct seizures, but, at the same time, those who comply with the law shouldn't have to carry the load for those who don't want to pay their fair share."

The department is presently investigating delinquent tax accounts that are candidates for seizures. Several warrants have been issued to State Police.

One Cook County auto parts business recently was seized for failing to pay $90,000 in delinquent sales taxes.

"We are utilizing our powers with this collection technique to show taxpayers we are serious in our efforts to collect overdue taxes," said Johnson. "We have numerous programs to find and collect this money. Seizures are one of our strongest — and final — methods."

After property is seized, the taxpayer or business has 20 days to pay the state liability and redeem possessions. If taxes have not been paid following the 20-day period, the items will be sold at an auction.

Proceeds will be applied to the delinquent tax. If there is any extra money from the sale, it will be returned to the individual or business.

Big Brothers, Big Sisters now serving Madison County

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Southwestern Illinois has announced the expansion of its service community to Madison County.

Children from one-parent families, ages 7-14, will be able to benefit from the youth-serving programs offered by the agency. This service has been available to youths in St. Clair County since 1961.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters provides a unique service for children. An adult volunteer is matched with the child for the purpose of establishing an ongoing, one-on-one relationship with the youngster. The Big Brother or Big Sister volunteer serves as a role model and a friend to the child during his or her formative years.

The expansion of Big Brothers/Big Sisters into Madison County was made possible through the support of the Madison County Community Health Board, Edwardsville Optimist Club, Edwardsville Lions Club, Tri-Cities Area United Way, River Bend United Way, Collinsville United Way, Edwardsville/Glen Carbon United Way, Edwardsville YMCA, Coordinated Youth Services and Montclair Bowl.

Inquiries from potential volunteers are being encouraged. Parents, teachers and other youth-serving agencies are also invited to inquire about referring children to the program.

Collinsville residents may inquire at the Fairview Heights office by calling 398-3162. All other residents of Madison County may inquire at the Granite City office by calling 876-2383.

Computer center expanded in scope

The research focus and scope of Washington University's Center for Computer Systems Design has been expanded, according to Mark A. Franklin, Ph.D., professor of electrical engineering and director of the center.

The research activities of the center have been expanded to include studies of high-speed packet switched networks, VLSI design of interconnection nodes and various network control algorithms.

ANY SALE would have to benefit the district, Walmsley said.

"That's the bottom line... whether it would be advantageous to the district," he said.

Walmsley said future discussions on a sale would be welcome. "We told them we would be interested in future discussions. The ball is in their court," he said.

Board Member Dave Partney supports the idea of selling the school property.

"IF WE CAN GET a proper dollar figure for that facility, we should encourage industrial growth," he said.

Partney suggested the school district could convert the vacant Logan School building on West 25th Street into Board of Education offices.

"We have a building there doing nothing," he said.

The Logan grade school building could easily be converted, said Partney. He said the building already has a new roof and new heating system but the district would need to install a central air-conditioning system. He said the system could be installed, and other District 9 classrooms could be improved with money from the office building sale.

LOGAN WOULD OFFER at least as much warehouse and office space as the current property, Partney said. Operating costs have not been compared.

Benefits of the Logan building would be additional parking areas and a larger room for public meetings, he said.

Logan school would probably not be of use to the district and would never bring a high enough bid to sell if it is not used for office space, Partney said.

Bell suing

I, but Holder and Cruse refused to return the suit claims.

The suit charges the city officials are in violation of a state law requiring Bell to be reinstated as a captain since he passed a required physical.

The suit asks that a judge order Holder and Cruse to reinstate Bell as a first captain. It also orders the city to pay Bell's salary during the suit.

RELL SAID Wednesday he turned the matter over to Schooley after he was not reinstated, and has not seen a copy of the suit.

"I don't see this job back," said attorney Butch Partney, an associate in Schooley's law firm. "He's a working man and wants his job back."

Assistant City Attorney John Hopkins said he has not an opportunity to review the suit. Hopkins will defend the city in the suit.

Death penalty for drug dealers urged

The Republican U.S. Senate nominee, State Rep. Judy Koehler, has told a Chicago news conference that "thousands die from drug overdoses each year. We ought to treat sellers of dangerous drugs like the murderers that they are and use the death penalty in certain serious cases."

"There are 4 to 8 million regular

"People don't have a use for that type of building. I think it would work out ideally," Partney said of a possible sale.

PRairie FARMS has already purchased the Siderer Supply Co. property at 19th and Adams streets near the school district property. The company is also building a second warehouse on Adams across from the main plant.

Rappoff said demolishing the existing plant to make way for the expansion is not an option.

"A new facility is needed," he said. "We have an old, antiquated facility down here. We need to update."

GRANITE CITY is a high priority. Rappoff said, because Prairie Farms expects market growth and wants to produce a more varied line of dairy products. He also said such an expansion would probably bring more jobs to the city.

"If you are to produce more products, you would need more people to take care of them," he said. "I am sure the company would like to remain in Granite City," he said.

Rappoff said the company would probably expand in Granite City "if there is ample room."

The Prairie Farms facility distributes frozen dairy products and dry goods to area fast-food chains and other outlets.

CENTRAL OFFICES of Prairie Farms are in Carlinville, Ill. The company also operates a butter and ice cream plant in O'Fallon, Ill.

Rappoff said the study would soon be completed. He said if Prairie Farms should decide to expand, the company would want to complete land purchases as soon as possible.

Warrior, Kahok kickers to battle tonight

By Gregg Ochoa

Executive Sports Editor

A new edition of an old rivalry unfolds tonight when the Granite City soccer team, puts its two-game winning streak on the line against Collinsville.

The game will begin at 6:45 p.m. at the Gauntlet.

It will be two different teams who will set foot on the field this season as both schools meet for the 25th time in the last 14 years. Granite City is 17-4-3 against the Kahoks in that time.

The Warriors, rated the No. 2 team in the state by the Chicago Tribune, are undefeated in two games this year, having netted a whopping nine goals thus far.

Senior Todd Adamitis is the Warriors' leading scorer with three goals. (He had a fourth one called back). Adamitis scored a pair of goals in Granite City's 4-0 win over Belleville East and added another tally against Alton Marquette.

"We're making mistakes, yet still scoring," said Granite City coach Gene Baker. "I'm pleased with the offense, but we are not going to mouth off about it, because these things tend to run in cycles and there are times when it seems like you can't score."

Still, the Warriors' offensive attack has been explosive and has clicked. All that despite not getting a goal from striker Jason Smith.

"Jason's working real hard," said Baker. "He might be pressing a little, but he'll score."

Collinsville who led the Kahoks in scoring, will no doubt be a marked man when the teams meet tonight. "That's one of the things we are going to work on (Wednesday's) practice," Baker said. "We want to discuss how we will handle that situation."

Collinsville is 1-1-1, not counting a game that was suspended earlier in the week against Belleville East. The Kahoks, who have only scored four goals this year, were ahead 1-0 against the Lancers when the game was stopped because of a bench-clearing scuffle with just over 12 minutes left to play.

Southwestern Conference officials will likely meet next week to decide whether the game will be finished or if Collinsville will get credit for the win.

The Kahoks own a 1-0 win over Triad and played Harrison (Ind.) to a 1-1 tie. The team's only loss was a 2-1 setback to Reitz Memorial (Ind.).

Thursday's meeting will be the first between the two teams since last Sept. 26. That match ended in a draw.

Collinsville coach Jim Stranz sees another nip-and-tuck battle. "We usually have close games," Stranz said. "Granite City is a good team and doubly tough when they are on their own field. Not too many people have been able to knock them out there. We just have to go out and play our game."

The Kahoks, who finished second in the state last year behind Quincy Notre Dame, are led by senior goalkeeper Mark Alhivers. Other players to watch are forwards Jeff Deutsch and Robb Hartman and midfielder Joe Reiniger.

"Potentially, this is a better skilled team than the one last year," Stranz said. "We have a good group of young players who are pushing. We even had three guys from last year who didn't make the team."

As usual, Stranz chose to downplay the fact that Smith is now a Warrior.

"He's a good player, but I can't see where that is going to make a difference," the coach said.

Granite City took time to mend for the Marquette game on Monday as the team viewed films of the win.

"It was slow getting back," Baker said. "Just the beating we took on the legs, some of them couldn't run."

Baker said he plans no major changes in the Warrior lineup, except we will likely start freshman Troy Adamitis, Todd's brother, at midfield.

"With his size, he doesn't look like a freshman," Baker said. "And he has played well."

Adamitis was one of five Warriors who found the back of the net against Marquette.

"I'm pleased with that," Baker said. "I felt all along this team could score and it just shows that right now that we have some balance and versatility."

Following the Collinsville game, the Warriors will get three days off before playing Edwardsville on Monday, Sept. 15, at SIU's Cougar Field.

Gridders prepare for unknown as Vikings await

By Gregg Ochoa

Executive Sports Editor

Ron Yates doesn't know if it's an advantage or a curse not knowing anything about the Normandy football team.

"This is the second week in a row where we had to prepare for a game not really knowing much about the opposition," said Yates.

But if past history is an indication, the Warriors acclimated themselves well last week, stopping Cahokia 27-6 in the season opener.

Kickoff for Friday's non-conference game is 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Stadium. It will be the season opener for Normandy, a public school in St. Louis.

"I know they got to see us play last week," Yates said. "But we don't know much about them."

Defensive coordinator Bob Stegemeier saw the Vikings play two times last year and has been working from there.

"From what I saw they have some good talent coming back," Stegemeier said. "We are just working hard so we will be prepared for anything."

Expect for one play, a 43-yard pass that resulted in Cahokia's on-field touchdown. Granite City handled the Comanches. Still, the Warriors need to work on some things.

"Whenever you look at game films after you've won, you see that you are not as good as you thought," said Yates. "The same thing is true after a loss. You are never as bad as you think."

Against Cahokia, the Warriors were both good and bad.

"I thought the effort was there, but I don't think our mental toughness was there in certain situations," Yates said.

One reason for this is that Granite City is still searching for identity. This is a team that was hit hard by graduation at certain skill positions.

"When you look at things, we really have only our five guys who have a lot of varsity experience."

"That's the toughest transition for a lot of these kids," Yates said. "It's the move from eighth grade to freshman ball and the transition from sophomore to the varsity level. The hitting and the physical (part) of the game is more intense. We have to have some patience."

"But we have a good bunch of kids and there is no reason for me not to be optimistic."

One thing that will buoy the coach's spirits is the play of senior defensive back Jamie Hogan. His five interceptions against Cahokia changed the complexion of the game.

"You take away that and it's a close ballgame," Yates said.

Hogan returned one of the passes for a touchdown and two others led directly to Granite City scores.

Besides the big play, Yates was happy with the offense. Granite City churned out 216 yards total offense, 152 of them through the air.

Yates hopes as the season wears on, the attack will become more balanced.

"You don't have to be 50-50," Yates said. "But you do have to do both in order to make each of them work."

Granite City mixed running plays and passes remarkably well in the team's first drive. The Warriors consumed over seven minutes on the drive and drove 62 yards in 17 plays, capping the march off with a touchdown run by Perry Stanley.

"That really didn't look like a first game of the season drive," Yates said. "We did a lot of things well on that series."

The offensive backfield is young, with three juniors handling most of the workload.

"I think in time they will develop into a fine unit," Yates said.

Junior Len Whiteside will start against Normandy in the I-back position. Whiteside has been slowed by a rib injury and a pincched nerve. He should provide more quickness. Stanley, who rushed for 24 yards against Cahokia, has been moved to the fullback slot.

Another junior, Kevin Sutphin, might also see some action.

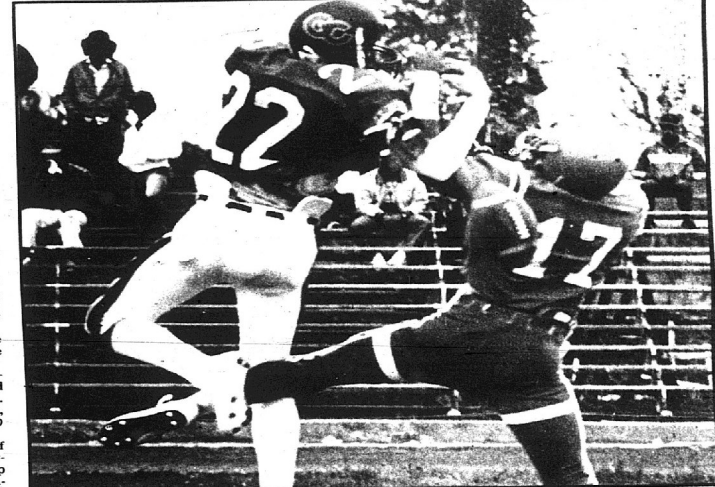

Other changes this week will see junior Paul Millard (5-9, 185) being moved to an offensive guard position. He will likely battle Steve Stockman for the spot.

Yates felt the Warriors defense played a much better game in the second half.

Our tackles (John Kabbendian and Charles Barber) started getting more involved," he said. "Our linebackers (Tim Davis, Craig Dippel and Mike Williams) also started to get into the flow."

Yates also praised the play of safety Tim Hogan and Eric Ryter-ski for their containment and hump in shutting down the Cahokia running game.

"Any time you hold another team to six points, you should win 98 percent of the time," Yates said. "Your offense should be good enough to score a touchdown and an extra point, especially at home."

JAMIE HOGAN, shown defending a pass against East St. Louis last season, did more of the same against Cahokia on the season opener last Friday, a 27-6 win for Granite City. The senior cornerback/wide receiver had five interceptions, a new school record. He returned one for a score and also caught two TD passes from brother Tim. The Warriors face Normandy (Mo.) tomorrow night in a 7:30 game at Memorial Stadium. It will be the season opener for the Vikings.

Patton's memories revived; team inducted in ISU Hall

Greg Patton remembers how it all came together in 1969.

At a time when Vietnam War demonstrations were reaching their peak, when the Beatles were recording their last album, and when the New York Mets were stunning the baseball world, Patton and a group of baseball players in Normal, Ill., were driving towards a national championship.

The end result of the 1969 season for Illinois State University was a 12-0 victory over Southwest Missouri State in Springfield, Mo., to give the Redbirds the College Division World Series title.

Patton, a native of Granite City who is now athletic director for District 9, was a third baseman-outfielder on that team. And last weekend, Duffy Bass' 33-5 squad was together again at ISU as the entire team was inducted into the ISU Hall of Fame.

"We had a real nice time," Patton said. "There was a reception at the hotel with some good speakers, and then we were honored at halftime of the football game Saturday night. The players were given some nice things. It really brought back some memories."

Patton, who starred at Granite City High School from 1964-66, played his freshman year at MacMurray College before transferring to ISU. It was his first season under Bass in 1969.

"I got a good opportunity to play in the second half of the season," he said. "I think I hit close to 400 for the year. I played third base against right-handed pitchers (Patton hit left-handed) and played some in the outfield against left-handers."

Although the Redbirds believed in themselves, not many others envisioned them going all the way, and with good reason.

"We only had one guy with a full scholarship for baseball," Patton said. "But we seemed to fit together well, and things started to go our way. We played together enough to know we had a chance to do real well. We had three real good starting pitchers."

They were Paul Sperry, Bob Graczyk and Buzz Capra. All three signed pro contracts, with Capra pitching a few years in the major leagues with the Atlanta Braves and the Mets.

Patton said he felt the team was in for an exciting year when they went south to play their first dozen or so games.

"Those teams had already played a lot of games, but we came back unbeaten," Patton said. "We started to realize how good we could be. We lost a couple of games, but the losses came at good times."

Even with a 28-5 mark after the regular season, the Redbirds were still accorded only the No. 4 seed in the four-team Midwest Regional at Delta State University. But they beat the host team in the finals 7-6, although there was a close call.

"One of their kids hit a ball about 300 feet in the bottom of the ninth, but it went foul," Patton said. "He hit it to right field, so I couldn't really tell from third base. But I think everybody on that side of the field from our team was blowing the ball foul."

After that, it was on to the four-team double elimination College Division World Series in Springfield, Mo. Sperry pitched a six-hit shutout in the 12-0 final, which resembled the Kansas City Royals' 11-0 romp over the Cardinals in Game 7 of the 1969 World Series.

"It was kind of like that," Patton said. "We got eight runs in the second inning. I played the outfield in that game, but I don't think I had any hits."

Patton said the year was truly a team effort. It had to be, because the Redbirds' best player, center fielder Guy Homoly, was injured stealing second in the final regular season game and missed the postseason. Homoly hit .413 during the year, with seven home runs and 18 steals. He was eventually drafted by San Francisco Giants for baseball and the Cleveland Browns for football. He tore up his knee returning a kickoff for the Browns on Monday Night Football.

ball, ending his career in both sports.

"He set the school record on that steal," Patton said. "But we had guys to come off the bench to help out. That's the kind of team it was. There were guys always ready to step in."

"And it wasn't like there were players hoping someone else would do poorly so they could play. We really got along well."

And they still do. Patton said he still sees most of his teammates often at golf outings and banquets. And the talk always seems to swing around to 1969.

"We talk about that and the next year, too," he said. "We advanced to the regional finals in 1970."

"But it was a great group of guys. And the nice thing was, we all had girlfriends who went to ISU. So, as it turned out, most of the wives know each other, which made it nicer when we went up there last weekend. It was great to get everybody together again."

Greg Patton

Bass is still the coach at ISU, but the Redbirds have yet to repeat the success of the 1969 team. Eight members of the team have already been inducted individually into the Hall of Fame.

"The 1969 national championship team was a very special group," Bass said. "They all had something to contribute to our successful season. The players are very excited about this honor."

"That year is something all of us will always have," Patton said. "It's good, when maybe you're feeling a little down, to get out the scrapbook and remember what it was like."

Nominees requested for GC Sports Hall of Fame

Help is sought from the general public in the selection of the athletes to be voted into the Granite City Sports Hall of Fame.

The members of the committee established to organize the Hall of Fame have decided to secure a site on which to build a permanent structure to display trophies and other memorabilia of the school's outstanding athletes.

Each person proposing a man or woman to be elected to the Hall of Fame are asked to submit, in writing, the person's name, next of kin, and a short resume of the suggested honoree's athletic career. Proposals are to be sent to Al Barnes, committee chairman, 2520 State St., Granite City, Ill. 62040.

Barnes also asked that those submitting names for consideration include photos, newspaper clippings and any other records which could be of help to decide whether the person is eligible to be honored.

Also adopted at Monday's meeting was a criteria for selection, a set of guidelines detailed by a committee headed by Joe Fedora, the recently-retired director of athletics at Granite City School District 9. Serving on Fedora's committee were Gerald Walters, Walter Klein, John Toccoff, Dave Morgan, Jim McKeehan and Barnes.

In the discussion of the criteria, the group directed the same committee to come up with an overall proposal as to how to proceed in the choosing of the initial class of Hall of Fame honorees, which could be anywhere from 50 to 100 people.

According to a preamble to the committee's proposal, "The Granite City Sports Hall of Fame is being established to honor individuals and/or teams that have attained a level of achievement that is believed to be above average expectations and standards of athletic performance and participation."

Those who will be honored may have achieved their status due to participation as a player, coach, manager or administrator, or through a combination of those.

Specific criteria for selection are:

1. Shall have performed in a manner that resulted in the attainment of pride, recognition and honor to the individual as well as to the community on and off the playing field.

2. Shall have attained the age of 40 by Jan. 1 of the year to be inducted. Inductees, can, of course, also be honored posthumously.

In addition, the selection committee shall consider and evaluate any other factors of an extraordinary nature not stated or implied in the criteria listed above.

For example, Barnes said, a Granite City athlete who happens to excel enough to win a medal in the 1988 Olympic Games could be considered immediately.

The committee, at its Sept. 8 meeting, discussed the date for the leadoff dinner to honor the first inductees. It was decided to be held no earlier than next February.

The committee members are Jim McKeehan, Jack Scarborough, Dick Portell, Bill Schooley, Walter Klein, Gerald Walters, Barry Loman, Jack Buente, Charley Briskey, George Eubanks, Frank Kraus, Dave Morgan and Al Barnes.

The next meeting of the committee is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 7, at the Granite City Park District Office in Wilson Park.

Stars felled by Bucks, 4-0

By Dave Whaley
Staff Writer

GODFREY — Any dreams the Granite City Campus Stars might have had of starting the season off on a long winning streak were quickly dashed.

The Stars' old nemesis, the Lewis and Clark Bucks, saw to that with a convincing 4-0 win here Wednesday afternoon. Granite City started the game off on an even note with the Bucks, but a questionable goal 27 minutes into the game seemed to turn the tide in favor of Lewis and Clark.

"Whether or not the goal was offside, it doesn't matter," said Stars coach Larry Petri, who saw his team fall to 2-1. "It was still a goal."

Brian Shield, who later scored a goal for the Bucks, controlled the ball to the right of CCC keeper Chris Sondkers and passed across to Dean Kasting alone in front. The Roxana native headed the ball past Sondkers.

Sondkers and the Stars fullbacks argued that Kasting was offside, but the goal stood.

"We had to fight back from that goal, and we didn't do it," Petri said. "I wasn't overly impressed with our play today. The score should have been worse than it was. Not that they are that much better than we are, but we just didn't play well."

Bucks coach Tim Rooney, a former assistant under such coaches as Florissant Valley's Pete Sorber and the St. Louis Steamers' Doug McBride, thought his team, now 2-0, needed a little time to gain their confidence.

"Things were pretty even for about 20 minutes," he said. "But we kind of took control after that. We took advantage of a couple of mistakes for goals in the first half. Usually, that's the way goals are scored in soccer. It's more often a mistake by the other team than a great offensive play."

Five minutes after Kasting's goal, the Stars misfired on a clearing attempt as the ball ended up right out in front of their goal. As Sondkers scrambled to cover up, the ball popped over to Rob Frazier, who had an empty net to shoot at at 32:52.

Petri couldn't blame Sondkers on any of the goals, and said the sophomore keeper kept the score from being much worse.

"He was excellent," Petri said. "He kept us in the game for a long time."

Late in the half, Mike Lindsay and Sam Schaffer each had shots from close in, but Sondkers smothered them. The Bucks outshot Granite City 9-3 in the opening half, and the Stars' scoring chances were held to a minimum.

Play got a little sloppier in the second half, as four yellow cards were issued when players exchanged words.

"I think it was frustration on our part," Petri said. "We think we're capable of beating them, and beating everybody. But not when we're playing the type of game that hasn't been coached to the players."

"We're not a finesse team. We have to push the ball up to the front line and attack. This game was played a lot in the middle."

After a Pat Melson goal was nullified because of offside, the Bucks came right back to tie 2-0 when Todd Zeller's long crossing pass from right wing came to Shield, who was allowed to move left-foot shot off the far post at 62:57.

Todd Jones and Matt Casserly both had good shots for the Stars as they finally put some pressure on goalie Andy Scanlan of Alton.

Philippians 1:29... "For unto you it is given in the behalf of Christ, not only to believe on him, but also to suffer for his sake."

Multitudes of people in times of crisis have called on Christ for help. There is no doubt that they have been helped. It seems, however, that many are led to believe that after coming to the Lord for help, there will be no more trials. Not so, my friend. There will still be some hard times.

In order for you to control your situation, you must accept suffering for Christ's sake as a privilege. All things work together for good to them who love God. It is up to you what the outcome will be of any test that you have to endure.

If you continue to serve God, to praise Him, and give thanks in all things, you may well hear Him say one day, "Well done."

Trust Him, Today.

Geralyn Pilarski to talk on 'Women as Managers'

The Business and Professional Women's Foundation was established in 1956 by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs Inc. Expansion of education and career opportunities for women are major thrusts of the Foundation.

All its programs and services are open to the public as BPWF's contribution to the nation. Many of the programs are unique, the only nationwide services designed for working women.

Current programs of the Foundation include scholarships for mature working women in the United States and Latin America, research developed through fellowships, special research grants and staff, management seminars for women and men, and publication of books, program materials, bibliographies and surveys on women and careers. There is a loan fund for women in graduate business studies.

All contributions made by BPWF organizations to the Foundation help to keep education and career opportunities for working women an ongoing effort.

All working women are invited to attend. Reservations can be made by calling Becky Slate, 452-5391, or Pauline Weir, 452-7529.

Geralyn Pilarski will be the guest speaker for the September dinner meeting of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Organization.

The meeting will be held at Charlie's Restaurant on Wednesday, Sept. 17, at 6:30 p.m.

Pilarski will speak on the topic of "Women as Managers."

She has been employed since September 1975 as Assistant to the chairman of the Business and Management Department at Webster University, St. Louis. In addition, she is adjunct lecturer at Webster and teaches undergraduates management courses, specifically "Women as Managers."

She has also taught at Meramec College, St. Louis, and was previously employed in retailing.

Pilarski received her bachelor of arts degree, while working, from Webster University in 1983. She is enrolled in the master of business administration program at Webster.

She resides with her husband, Frank, in St. Louis and they are the parents of 16-month-old twin sons.

Lucille Berdy, chairman of the Foundation Committee, and members of the committee will be in charge of the program.

Women's Division dinner scheduled

Reservations must be made no later than Monday, Sept. 15, for the September meeting of the Women's Division of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

The dinner meeting will be held at Sunset Hills Country Club at 6 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 18, Betty Dietrich, president, said.

Dietrich said the program will include honors extended to the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce. Special recognition will be accorded to all past presidents of the Women's Division.
